

Chapter 16 (New South)

Reunion and the New South

The Compromise of 1877
“Redeeming” a New South
The Rise of Jim Crow
Georgia in the late 19th Century
Du Bois vs. Washington

Chapter 17

Crushing the Native Americans

Life of the Plains Indians
Searching for an Indian Policy
Final Battles on the Plains
The End of Tribal Life

Settlement of the West

Men and Women on the Overland Trail
Land for the Taking
The Spanish-Speaking Southwest

The Bonanza West

The Mining Bonanza
The Cattle Bonanza
The Farming Bonanza
Discontent on the Farm
The Final Fling

Chapter 18

An Empire on Rails

Advantages of the Railroad
Building the Empire
Linking the Nation via Trunk Lines
Rails Across the Continent
Problems of Growth

An Industrial Empire

Carnegie and Steel
Rockefeller and Oil
The Business of Invention
Dukes

The Sellers

Advertising, New Merchants, New Products

The Wage Earners

Working Men, Working Women, Working Children

Culture of Work

Labor Unions and Labor Unrest

Chapter 19

The Lure of the City

Skyscrapers and Suburbs
Tenements and the Problems of Overcrowding

Strangers in a New Land
Immigrants and the City
The Tweed Ring

Social and Cultural Change, 1877–1900

Manners and Mores
Leisure and Entertainment
Changes in Family Life
Changing Views: A Growing Assertiveness Among Women
Educating the Masses
Higher Education

The Stirrings of Reform

Progress and Poverty
New Currents in Social Thought
The Settlement Houses
A Crisis in Social Welfare

Chapter 20

Politics of Stalemate

The Party Deadlock
Reestablishing Presidential Power

Gilded Age Politics

Tariffs, Trusts, and Silver
Civil Service Reform
Issue of Immigration
The Democratic bookends
The Billion Dollar Budget
The 1890 Elections

The Rise of the Populist Movement

The Farm Problem
The Fast-Growing Farmers' Alliance
The People's Party

The Crisis of the Depression

The Panic of 1893
The Pullman Strike
A Beleaguered President
Breaking the Party Deadlock

Changing Attitudes

Women and Children in the Labor Force
Changing Themes in Literature

The Presidential Election of 1896

The Mystique of Silver
The Republicans and Gold
The Democrats and Silver
Campaign and Election